From the publisher

The issue of the German and Soviet terror and the situation of the Jewish community during the Second World War are constantly topical in the historical discourse. This has resulted in scientific works, popular books and educational exhibitions.

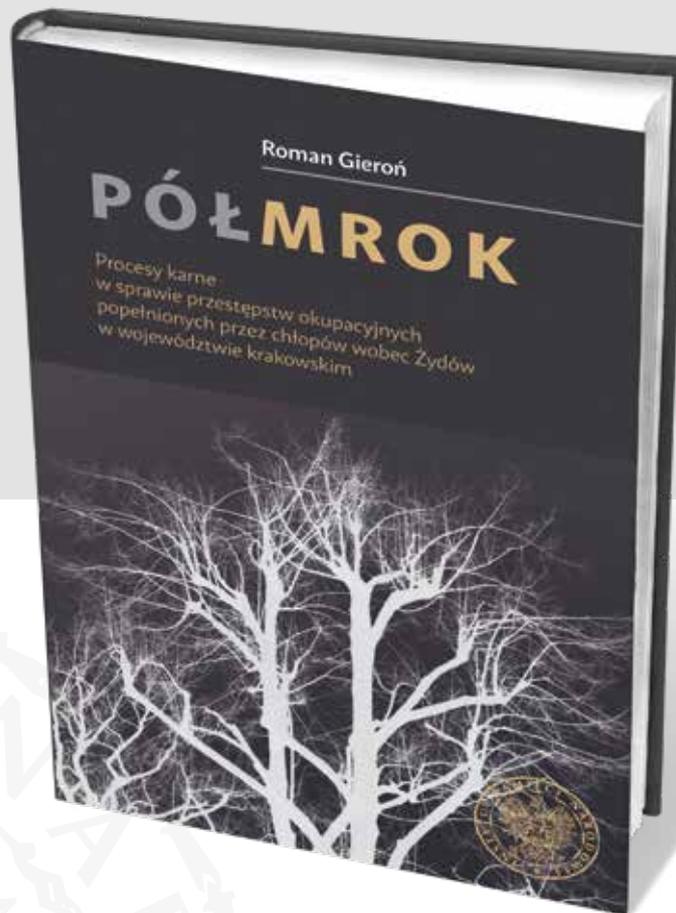

The period of the Second World War has been a special and tragic experience for the Polish citizens, especially of Jewish origin. The totalitarian states: German and the Soviet Union, used Polish lands as the place where they implemented the ideological concepts of the national socialism or the communism. This resulted in the introduction of a universal terror system, performing criminal operations aimed at killing or deporting millions of people. The Holocaust, extermination of intelligence, mass executions of soldiers and civilians, construction and expansion of the system of concentration camps and extermination camps, deliberate generation of inhuman living conditions, all this constituted milestones of the 'achievements' of the states ruled by Adolf Hitler and Joseph Stalin.

Various aspects of these problems have been subject of research conducted by the Institute of National Remembrance. This has translated into a number of publications, both scientific and popular-science. This catalogue presents those, first of all, that discuss the German policy towards the Jews, and particularly the Holocaust, and those that describe the relations between the Poles and the Jews.

Twilight. Criminal trials concerning occupation-period crimes committed by peasants against Jews in the Cracow Province

[Półmrok. Procesy karne w sprawie przestępstw okupacyjnych popełnionych przez chłopów wobec Żydów w województwie krakowskim]

Cracow 2020, 376 pp.

The book presents the criminal trials held during 1945–1950 concerning crimes committed under the Nazi German occupation by peasants against Jews in the Cracow Province. The topic of the dissertation boils down to the question: to what extent the preserved files of proceedings under the 'August' decree provide a reliable and valuable source for research on Polish-Jewish relations in the countryside in the Cracow Province under the Nazi German occupation. In addition, the general court jurisdiction and the penalties adjudged were analysed, while characterising the defendants tried for the of occupation-period crimes.

A Broken Childhood. The Fate of the Children from the Jewish Orphanage at 64 Dietla Street at Cracow during the German Occupation

Przerwane dzieciństwo. Losy dzieci Żydowskiego Domu Sierot przy ul. Dietla 64 w Krakowie podczas okupacji niemieckiej Institut Pamięci Narodowej – Wydawnictwo „Wysoki Zamek”, Cracow 2012, 476 pp.

Available in a Polish-English edition, the book is devoted to the wartime history of one of the social institutions from Cracow that helped Jewish orphans. The association that looked after children was established already in the second half of the 19th century and since then on served a very important role in the life of the Jewish community in the district of Kazimierz, Cracow. The activities of the institution were put to an end by the Second World War. The author describes the ruthless and planned policy implemented by the Germans, which resulted in the extermination of many Jewish children in occupied Cracow.

Struggle for the memory. Political aspects of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising anniversary celebrations 1944–1989

[Walka o pamięć. Polityczne aspekty obchodów rocznicy powstania w getcie warszawskim 1944–1989]

Warsaw 2009, 496 pp. ('Monografie' ['Monographs' series], vol. 49)

The author presents the forming of the image of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising through official propaganda in the press, scientific studies, history textbooks, film, literature and art. She shows the role played in this process by the celebrations of subsequent anniversaries. She also describes how the attitude towards the Jewish martyrdom was formed in opposition to the official propaganda among the Polish intellectual elites, the Roman-Catholic Church and the political opposition.

The book was awarded a prize in the 'Władysław Pobóg-Malinowski' Competition for the Best Historical Debut of 2007.

German camp in Płaszów 1942–1945

[Niemiecki obóz w Płaszowie 1942–1945]

Warsaw–Cracow 2009, 312 pp.

Construction of the forced labour camp in Płaszów began in November 1942.

It was supposed to be temporarily used in utilizing the ghetto workforce and to help ‘solve the Jewish question’ in Cracow. Transformed on 10 January 1944 into a concentration camp in which also other nations, including Poles, were imprisoned, it existed nearly to the end of the war. The publication combines extensive and unique illustration material with a broad description of the camp history.

Adam Czerniaków 1880–1942. Chairman of the Warsaw Ghetto

[Adam Czerniaków 1880–1942. Prezes getta warszawskiego]

Warsaw 2009, 375 pp. + 32 pp. insert ('Monografie' ['Monographs' series], vol. 50)

Adam Czerniaków played many important roles in the socio-political life of the Second Polish Republic and was one of the main leaders of the Polish Jews. His moral courage, defiance of stereotypes and nonconformity made him unpopular. Since 1939, he was the chairman of the Judenrat in Warsaw. He committed suicide on 23 July 1942, the second day of the deportation of the Warsaw Jews to the death camp in Treblinka.

The Risk of Survival. The Rescue of the Jews by the Poles and the Tragic Consequences for the Ulma Family from Markowa

[Ryzyko ocalenia. Ratowanie Żydów przez Polaków i tragiczne następstwa dla rodziny Ulmów z Markowej]

Warsaw 2009, 116 pp. („Kto ratuje jedno życie...” [„Whoever saves one life...”] series, vol. 3)

In a very synthetic way, the author presents the fate of the Poles and the Jews in German-occupied Poland during the Second World War. He focuses on the help Poles offered to the Jews during the Holocaust. He shows the efforts of the Polish Underground State and the ‘Żegota’ Council for Aid to Jews, as well as the actions of ordinary people who risked their lives to save their Jewish fellow citizens from extermination. Special place was given to the Ulma family murdered on 24 March 1944 for helping Jews.

Correction continued. Reply to the editors and co-authors of the book “It’s still night. The fate of Jews in selected counties of the occupied Poland”, vols. 1–2, edited by Barbara Engelking, Jan Grabowski, Warsaw 2018

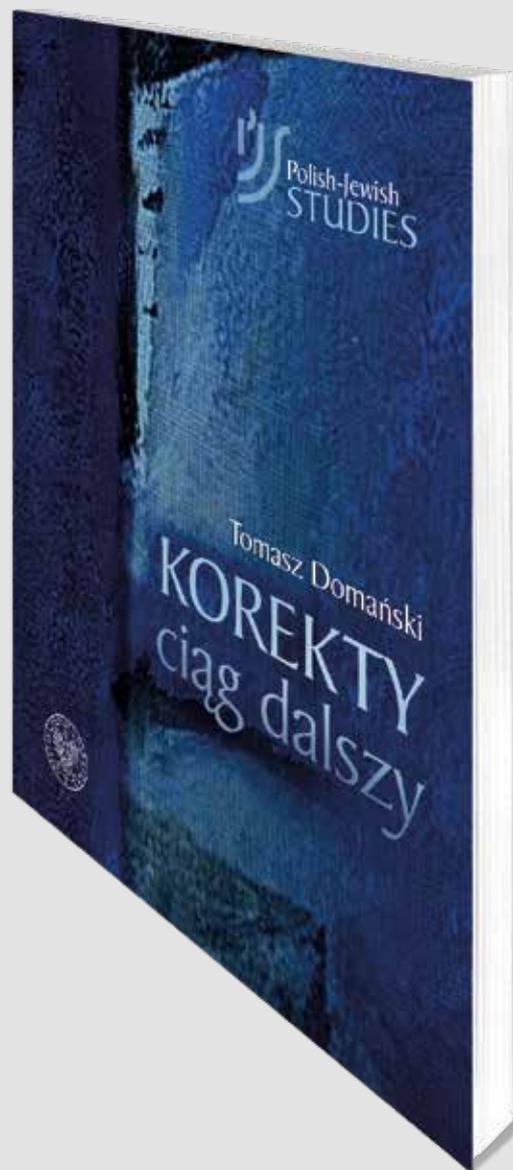

[Korekty ciąg dalszy. Odpowiedź redaktorom i współautorom książki »Dalej jest noc. Losy Żydów w wybranych powiatach okupowanej Polski«, t. 1–2, red. Barbara Engelking, Jan Grabowski, Warszawa 2018]

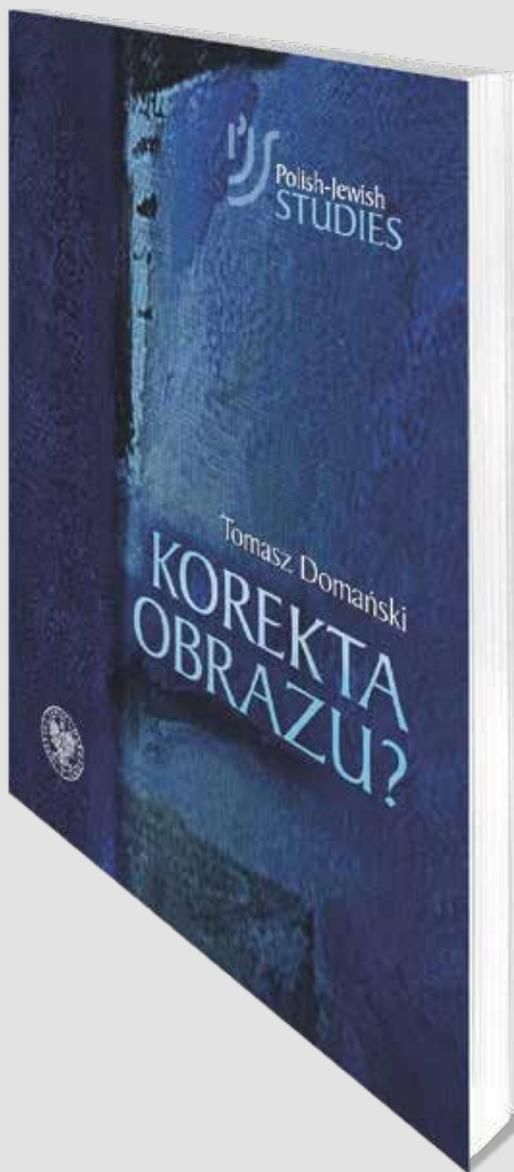

Warsaw 2020, 110 pp.

The publication is the author’s reply to the comments and allegations included in the responses of the researchers of the Polish Center for Holocaust Research. Step by step, he shows that most of the accusations made against his review are unfounded. He indicates new examples of the same mechanisms that he has already described in detail in his “Korekta obrazu”, of how sources are used and how new myths are built or false theses presented on this basis.

Navy blue police in the Generalgouvernement in 1939–1945

[Policja granatowa w Generalnym Gubernatorstwie w latach 1939–1945]

scientific editing by Tomasz Domański and Edyta Majcher-Ociesa, Kielce–Warsaw 2019, 296 pp.

This volume is the outcome of a scientific conference organised by the Institute of National Remembrance in 2016. The researchers discuss here key issues related to the forming and operation of the so-called navy blue police until the end of the Second World War. Among others, they analyse the legal basis and functioning of the navy blue police, its image in the Polish-language press published by the Germans, and describe the activities of the formation in Kielce. The study is also important for understanding German-Polish-Jewish relations during the Second World War.

Extermination of Jews from Zagłębie Dąbrowskie

scientific editing by Aleksandra Namysłó, Instytut Pamięci Narodowej – Muzeum Zagłębia w Będzinie, Będzin 2004, 174 pp.

The publication is an aftermath of a symposium organised on 9 September 2003 during the commemoration of the 60th anniversary of the extermination of the Jews from Będzin. The symposium participants presented papers that not only described the process of extermination of the Jews from Zagłębie Dąbrowskie itself, but also tackled problems of a more general nature that were characteristic of the situation of all Jewish inhabitants of the Katowice Regency.

Tomasz Kurpierz

Henryk Sławik (1894–1944). Socialist biography

[Henryk Sławik (1894–1944). Biografia socjalisty]

Katowice–Warsaw, 836 pp.

The book presents the social, professional and political activities of Henryk Sławik, the hero of three nations – Polish, Jewish and Hungarian. It is estimated that during World War II, while chairing the Citizens' Committee for the Protection of Polish Refugees in Hungary, he could save almost 30,000 lives people, including approx. 5,000 Polish Jews. He also organized, in cooperation with the clergy, an orphanage for Jewish children. For this activity, he was murdered in August 1944 by the Germans in the Gusen concentration camp. In 1977, the Yad Vashem Institute honored him with the title of Righteous Among the Nations.

scientific editing by Roman W. Rybicki, Bartosz Nowożycki, Warsaw 2019, 368 pp. ('Z archiwum emigracji' ['From the emigration archive'] series, vol. 6)

The publication contains official letters published by Stefan Korboński in American daily newspapers. The collection published here includes his letters to newspaper editors, who often had poor knowledge of Central and Eastern European matters and made glaring errors, as well as statements of the Assembly of Captive European Nations, for example on forced labour camps in Soviet bloc countries, or his recollections on the anniversary of the outbreak of the Warsaw Uprising in the form of a letter to the editor of the New York Times. A large part of the intervention in the American press also concerned false information appearing there about Polish-Jewish relations during the German occupation.

[Ale jednak czuję i żyję... Pamiętnik więźnia obozu pracy w Budzynie] scientific editing by Marcin Urynowicz, Warsaw 2012, 352 pp.

Memoirs of Marcelli Stark provide the voice of a Polish Jew who survived the Second World War massacre, a mathematician and a pre-war Polish communist, born in Lvov (now Lviv in Ukraine) in 1908. The diary was written in late 1945/early 1946 and it mainly covers 1943. It is the most comprehensive testimony available about the camp at Budzyń. The memoirs are accompanied, among others, by a selection of the author's post-war correspondence.

[Sobibór. Bunt wobec wyroku]

collective editing, Instytut Pamięci Narodowej – Ośrodek Karta, Warsaw 2012, 172 pp. + 20 pp. phot. insert Sobibór has been the least known of all the extermination camps. The history of the camp in which over 300,000 people were murdered has been reconstructed on the basis, first of all, of reports, testimonies and diaries of former prisoners who survived the uprising and lived to be liberated. The publication consists of fragments of testimonies of 27 survivors and of two letters thrown out of a train heading for the camp by people who then died in a gas chamber.

[Wspomnienia żydowskiego działacza rzemieślniczego]

Warsaw 2010, 240 pp. ('Relacje i wspomnienia' ['Testimonies and memoirs'] series, vol. 14)

Before 1939, half of the craftsmen in Poland came from the Jewish community. The attack of the Third Reich and the Soviet Russia on Poland enabled Germany to implement the 'Endlösung der Judenfrage' ('Final solution of the Jewish question'). The Holocaust has become a fact. Baruch Elimelech Rak has co-founded the modern movement of Jewish craftsmen in Warsaw and Poland. He was the only one among the leaders who managed to emigrate in time and write his memoirs. Scientific periodicals

„Polish-Jewish Studies”

Bilingual annual journal in English and Polish that discusses the Polish-Jewish relations and the history of the Jewish community in Poland in the 20th century. The aim is also to present national and local research and activity to preserve the memory of the Polish Jews. The journal is planned by its editors as a forum for the exchange of current research findings in Jewish Studies for researchers from various scientific establishments.

Available free of charge at IPN bookshops.

Brand new

Polish-Jewish Studies no. 1/2020

The first issue includes mostly articles that discuss the period of the Second World War that cover a broad spectrum of Polish-Jewish relations during the period of the most difficult trial: both the positive and negative experiences. The issue closes with reviews of more important and sometimes controversial research studies from recent years, as well as reports from scientific conferences and description of initiatives to preserve the memory of Polish Jews.

The first issue of the includes the following articles:

■ Tomasz Domański, “The ‘August decree’ trial of ‘navy blue’ policemen from Wodzisław charged with a crime against Jews”;

■ Alicja Gontarek, “Polish consular and diplomatic mission in Havana and the issue of Jewish refugees in Cuba during the Second World War”;

■ Sebastian Piątkowski, “Aryan papers’. The issues of help provided by Poles to Jews in legalising false identities in the General-gouvernement”;

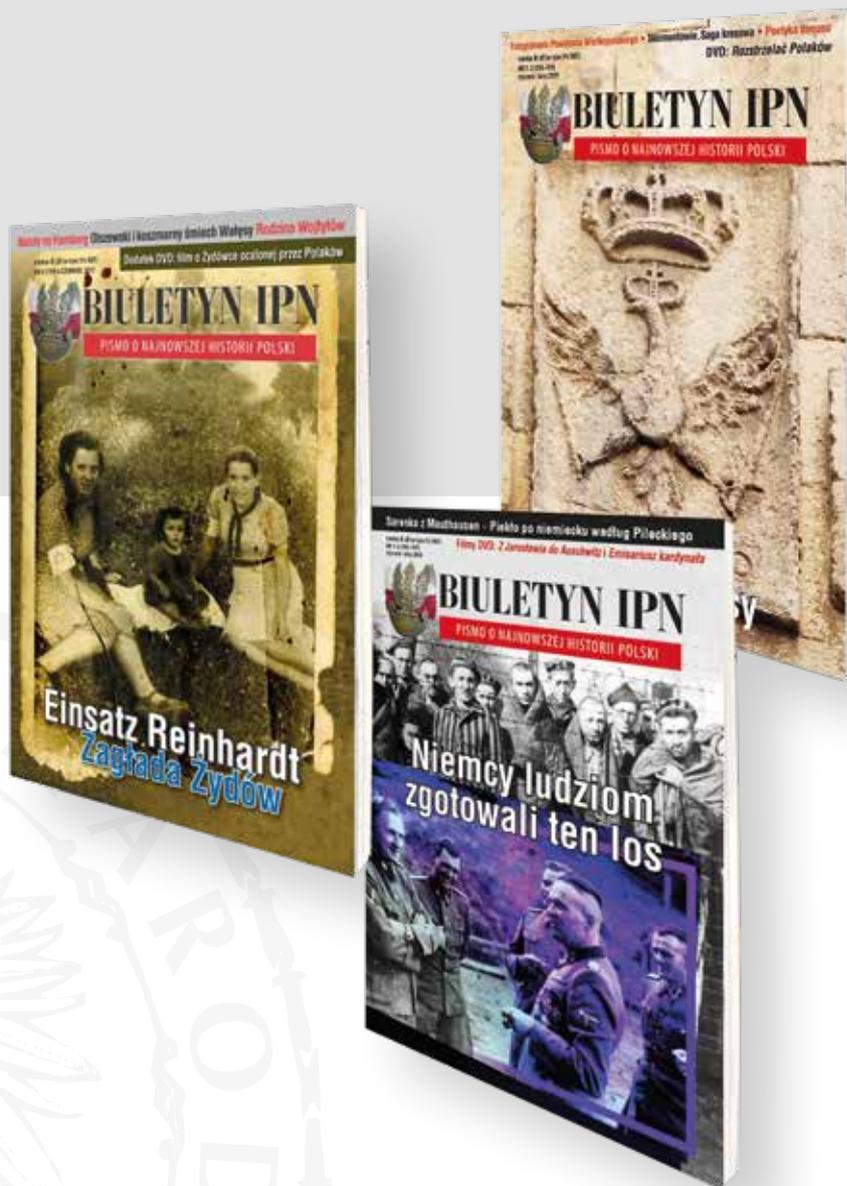

■ Ryszard Śmietanka-Kruszelnicki, “Between a thesis, a hypothesis and literary fiction – a tale about the pogrom of Jews in Kielce – a review of the book by Joanna Tokarska-Bakir ‘Pod klątwą. Extermination of Polish Jews during the Second World War. Education package

[Zagłada Żydów polskich w czasie II wojny światowej]

edited by Adam Puławski, Agnieszka Jarczyńska, Dariusz Libionka, Warsaw 2005, 88 pp. + 36 pp. + 36 cards

The aim of the publication is to help teachers in sharing and students in assimilating the knowledge about the unimaginable massacre of almost 6 million European Jews, including 3,5 million Polish Jews. It is also supposed to constantly shape the living memory of those events and in particular of the victims, their suffering and death, as well as about the courage and determination of those who survived.
